LIKELIKE'S WRECK

Officers and Crew Arrive on Stmr. Iwalani.

Mate Swinton Tells How Steamer Grounded—C. L. Wight Orders Her Abandoned.

The steamer Iwalani arrived yesterday morning with the officers and crew of the wrecked Likelike on board. Captain Sachs could not be found, but the following story of the unlucky incident was obtained from Mate Swinton:

"The Likelike left Honolulu last Thursday afternoon for Kukaiaua and Laupahoehoe. She arrived in Olowalu at 5 a. m. Friday, and there took on 1,500 bags of sugar. Left at 2 p. m. the same day, after having taken Messrs G. P. and S. G. Wilder aboard. Landing them at Maalea we left again, and as we entered the channel, Captain Sachs went below for a nap, leaving me in charge, and giving me instructions to call him as soon as land was near. We had steam and sail both on and a quick passage was made.

"At 8:45 p. m. we sighted Mahukona light and awaited off that point. Called the captain at 9:30 o'clock. He came on deck, and I pointed to the light, saying that Honolulu was on the lee bow. He went aft to the wheel house for the men to take in sail. They did not come for some little time, and then I went myself to call them.

"When I got them up Captain Sachs gave the order to take in sail and haul down the jib and foresail. Before we got the jib down the Likelike went aground about four steamer lengths away from shore, just this side of Upolu Point, and about a mile and a half to windward of Honolulu. I glanced at my watch and found it was 10:05 o'clock.

"It was an error of judgment, as Captain Sachs thought that we were further away from shore than we really were. The Likelike was backed, but all to no avail. When she swung around her propeller got foul of the rocks, and there we were. Boats were lowered and the starboard anchor taken out. Then we hauled the hawser taut with the donkey, but not an inch would the steamer budge.

"It was midnight, and a boat was lowered and the purser was sent ashore to telephone for the Helene. This steamer arrived about 3:30 a. m. Saturday. In the meantime Mr. C. L. Wight had been telephoned to, and the Kilanea was likewise dispatched to the scene of the disaster. When the Helene arrived in sight about 300 bags of sugar were taken out and placed aboard her. No more could be gotten out, as the water poured in and made work impossible.

"The Kilanea Hou arrived about daylight, and later on Mr. Wight arrived on the Noeau. He went on board the Likelike, and after doing all in his power to save the steamer, ordered her abandoned. We got the two donkey engines and a few other things off and put them on the Kilanea Hou. The Iwalani was telephoned for, and she brought us to Honolulu.

"From the looks of the Likelike before we left, her bottom must have been smashed badly. She had not yet begun to go to pieces."

An investigation into the wreck of the Likelike will likely be held today.

Here's a Pretty Mess.

It has been the custom for a year past, and perhaps longer, for policemen on duty to notify the person on duty at the Government Electric Light Station when a light on the street happened, for some reason, to be extinguished or failed to glow. Men working on a morning newspaper have opportunities for reporting these accidents the same as the police officers, and it has frequently happened that men on the Advertiser have telephoned that certain lights were out. Then the reporters were told to notify the police and they would attend to it. Sunday night the light at the corner of Nu-anu and King was out between 10 o'clock p. m. and 2 a. m., and when the attention of the policemen at King and Fort was called to it, they remarked: "The captains told us not to report them when the lights did not burn. Suppose they go out, let them stay out until the electric light people find it out for themselves." This means that the Government must keep night inspectors on the streets at all times or have the streets in darkness. Is telephoning too laborious for the policemen?

Hotel Dance Tonight.

In honor of the passengers on the Australia today the management of the Hawaiian Hotel has arranged for one of the popular after-dinner dances to-night, the Quintet Club will be present and provide music. The club will also play during the dinner hour while the guests discuss the viands which Chef Schindler will prepare for them. This will be the Chef's first swell dinner in Honolulu and under instructions from the management he will prepare dishes that have never before been served here. Delicacies arriving by the Australia will be served to the guests. The dance of course is open to society people in Honolulu and not a few take advantage of this semi-monthly occasions for real solid enjoyment.

Circuit Court News.

Judge Carter granted the petition of H. A. Widemann, guardian of the minor children of C. O. Berger, to expend a part or the whole of the principal of the ward, C. O. Berger, in defraying the expenses of sending him to the United States and for maintaining and educating him there.

Upon the approval of Judge Perry, it was stipulated yesterday that the case of the Republic vs. W. J. Gallagher be tried on May 22d.

Motion was made yesterday by the defendants in the case of Kealilaka et al. vs. Moma Pila and Charles Pila, for a change of venue and place of trial of the case to Kohala at the October term.

Bicycle Track.

The site for the new bicycle track has been chosen, and work will begin in about a fortnight. Kewalo is the place. The exact location is just mauka of and adjoining Cyclomere Lake, where it was first proposed to build a track. The land chosen is 400x300, and a lease of 10 years, at a rental of $200 a year, has been obtained. The site is considered a good one by the bicyclists.

Corset Covers, 75 cents to $1.75
Night Gowns, 75 cents to $3.50
Chemise, 35 cents to $1.75
